President To Ask For Sharp Boost In Taxes

Plans To Place Defense Effort On Pay-As-You-Go Basis

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—President Truman and his congressional advisors decided today to ask congress for an "immediate" tax bill calling for heavy increases on corporation and individual incomes. Congressional leaders said after a White House conference that the house and senate will consider an interim tax increase and probably put off any full, long-range tax boost until next January.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—President Truman asks Congress in a special message this week for a sharp boost in individual, corporation and excess profits taxes to put the defense effort on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Senate GOP leader Taft, Ohio, estimated the Russian threat would cost the United States 10 to 20 billion dollars a year extra for the next 10 to 15 years.

A source close to the White House said the presidential message "will be emphatic, positive and rather urgent" in its plea for quick congressional action on higher taxes.

Mr. Truman will be supported in his request by his mid-year economic report, expected to go to Capitol Hill Wednesday. Congress, already eyeing ways and means of gathering more money for increased defense spending, is expected to approve the President's request. But there will be some dispute over the manner in which to achieve it.

"Semi-Military" Condition Taft bluntly asserted in a radio broadcast that the Russian threat is clamping a "semi-military" condition on the country.

The Senate Republican leader continued: "An additional 10 to 15 billions a year over the present level of 13 billions for military, plus perhaps some additions for foreign aid, will take the budget up from around 40 billions a year to above 50 and perhaps to 60 billions.

"And since this is not a temporary condition but one that may continue indefinitely, we should take the people for the whole cost."

Sen. Sparkman (D) Ala., a member of the Senate Banking Committee, also called for an immediate boost in taxes, and in particular a heavy levy on excess profits.

One high-ranking administration senator, who privately opposes writing another tax bill for this year, said that if prices really get out of control the only way to bring them down would be to impose a very heavy sales tax.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., chairman of the Congressional Economic Committee, demanded immediate enactment of an excess profits tax on corporations to finance war preparations and to curb inflation.

With a lot of road construction, building of the turnpike, and construction of a number of pipe line extensions in this area, Western Pennsylvania in the local district is being quite well dug up this summer, it is noted.

Oats crop in the county is ripening and will soon be ready for harvesting it is indicated. Wheat harvest is well advanced, although considerable wheat is yet to be cut.

Last week of July is now entered, and as yet there has been little hot summer weather in New Castle and Lawrence County. One prognosticator predicted that August would be hot this summer.

Population Of Nation Now More Than 150,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—The United States is officially listed today among the most populous nations on earth with a 1950 count of 150,520,198.

Preliminary census figures show that the country—one of the youngest nations on earth—added a record-breaking 19 million persons to its total between 1940 and 1950.

The greatest proportional increase took place between 1800 and 1810 when the population reached 7,239,881.

The recent census also showed that Uncle Sam's nephews, who numbered a piddling 3,929,214 in 1790, are still pushing westward in the great national trek.

The heading of Horace Greeley's advice to "go west, young man, go west!" moved the comparatively

U.N. Receives Report From Gen. MacArthur

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, July 24.—The United Nations today received the first full report from Supreme Commander Gen. Douglas MacArthur on the Korean fighting and military situation since the invasion exactly one month ago.

The security council tentatively called a meeting for tomorrow to consider the report and at the same time to give proper emphasis to the fact that on June 25 it adopted the sanctions resolution under which President Truman hurried American forces into the battle against the invader.

The MacArthur report, an eight-page appraisal of the Korean campaign, was forwarded to Secretary

Bombers Again Attack North Korea Sectors

Eighty Tons Of Bombs Dropped On Special Targets

(BULLETIN)

TOKYO, July 24.—(INS)—Eighty tons of bombs were dumped on North Korean communications today by American B-29s in clearing weather that permitted visual bombing over the war theater for the first time in several days.

The new B-29s followed superfortress bombings Sunday, featured by a 130-ton downpour of fire bombs on the North Korean Communist capital of Pyongyang. The Sunday B-29 raids were staged by means of radar-sighting because heavy clouds prevented visual aiming.

Monday's visual superfortress attacks on North Korean communications were announced by the U. S. Far East forces Tokyo headquarters at 7:30 o'clock tonight (5:30 A. M. EDT). The first announcement of the raids did not specify the targets hit.

Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosy) O'Donnell, chief of the new Far East strategic bomber command, led Sunday's 260,000-pound firebomb B-29 strike at Pyongyang.

Industrial Targets The clouds prevented an immediate evaluation of the bombing, which was directed against industrial targets.

American and Australian pilots, also struck at a wide variety of other targets all the way from the battle lines to the Communist capital.

RAAF Mustangs reported they knocked out or damaged eight North Korean tanks, and U. S. Fifth air force flyers said they damaged ten more.

Rail and highway bridges also were singled out as targets, with

Fighter Planes Join Effort To Halt Red Push

By JOHN RICH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

AN AMERICAN AIRFIELD IN KOREA, July 24.—American fighter planes savagely bombed the towns of Namwon and Kwangju today in a desperate battle to halt the most serious North Korean Communist threat to date as Red columns which took the entire west coast swung eastward.

The Communists were headed toward the American "lifeline" port of Pusan at the southeastern tip of the Korean peninsula.

Namwon, about 30 miles east of Kwangju, was blasted by both Mustang fighters and Jet Shooting Stars which worked directly against troops in a struggle to halt the Communists on a road where ground opposition was apparently lacking.

Step Up Attack

The Reds stepped up their attacks all along the Korean front in what appeared to be the opening of the greatest offensive of the war.

Altogether, 15 Red columns were on the move—eight toward the American First Cavalry and 25th Divisions and South Korean positions between Yongdong, 25 miles southeast of Taejon, and Punggi.

The best information at advance U. S. headquarters in Korea said there was lots of enemy activity in front of First Cavalry positions although infantry engagements were still scattered. It appeared that a Red offensive was

Will Scrutinize Sweeping Power Requests By Truman

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—Senate banking committee are ready today to examine with a critical eye President Truman's request for sweeping economic powers to meet world-wide communist threats.

Committee Republicans are especially anxious to have some points clarified.

Questions to be fired at W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Securities Resources board, who is the first witness, probably will center around these presidential requests:

1. Authority to allocate "facilities" as well as materials.
2. Authority to deny the right of a citizen to refuse to testify on the

New Era Started With Today's Move

(BULLETIN)

COCOA, Fla., July 24.—(INS)—A giant guided missile was fired horizontally across the Atlantic ocean today to usher in a new era of "push-button" technology.

The air force released the rocket at 9:29 a. m. (EST) from the Banana River long range proving grounds at Cocoa. It was the first horizontal flight-testing on army ordnance's "Bumper No. 7".

The "Bumper" rocket had been scheduled for launching last Wednesday, but a faulty main fuel valve caused the attempt to fizzle out.

Results Not Announced No results of the flight were made public, but public information officers called it "successful".

On the first part of its trajectory, the missile will be carried by a rocket of the German V-2 type. That will "bump" a U. S.-de-

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—The house armed services committee will ask in closed hearings how military and civilian officials expect to spend the extra billions congress will vote for the Korean war.

Legislators are waiting today for President Truman to send up a detailed request for additional defense funds. The president said he would ask for 10 billions above and beyond the present 13 billion dollar military budget.

Meanwhile, the house committee will ask witnesses what they plan to do with this vast new sum and what they have done with the billions spent since V-J Day.

Messages of grief from high British officials poured into Ottawa.

BATTLE FRONT IN KOREA TODAY

—Acme Telephoto

Main North Korean Communist onslaught is in the area of Taejon (1). For two days, First Cavalry held off all-out drive toward Yongdong, but Reds drove a wedge (small white arrow) through the left side of the U. S. defense line (jagged symbol) and swept toward the mountains. In the southwest, a wide-sweeping, almost unopposed Red drive captured Kwangju (2), putting enemy in position to drive south and east, far behind U. S. lines toward Pusan (3), vital supply port. North Korean east coast drive toward Taejon appeared stalled at Yongdok (4) with both sides claiming the town. General MacArthur reported heavy Red reinforcements pouring into Chungju (5) to join the attack on Hamchang (6).

Drive Is Down Southwest Coastal Plains

Enemy Suffers Heavy Losses But Drive Continues

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, July 25.—(Tuesday)

—Communist armored forces in great strength swung eastward along the Korean south coast today in a vast enveloping movement as at least eight separate Red columns hammered American and South Korean lines on the central front from Yongdong eastward.

American fighter planes struck fiercely at the Red troops which pounded eastward to Namwon, only 85 airline miles from the vital south-east port of Pusan.

The tank-paced invaders reached Namwon after engulfing the big rail and highway hub of Kwangju in their deep "end run" down the southwest coastal plains.

Planes Attack Lines

Mustang and jet "Shooting Star" fighter planes hit desperate at the Communist horde at Namwon to slow their serious threat to the life line rail route from Pusan.

The Reds in their three-day sweep down the western coastal plain were unopposed on the ground and General Douglas MacArthur's Headquarters in Tokyo took a most serious view of their sudden swing eastward, although there is no official comment on the situation.

A front dispatch from International News Service War Correspondent John Hich said that altogether fifteen Communist columns were in action as their attacks were stepped up in what may become the greatest enemy offensive of the war.

The eight Red columns smashed

Food Surplus May Be Curb On Rising Markets

By FELIX COTTEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 24.—High administration officials said today that President Truman plans to hold the government's two billion dollar food surplus over rising markets as a club against profiteering.

The President has asked for more liberal power to sell government food stocks in the controls bill on which Senate and House banking committees start hearings today. The Commodity Credit Corporation owns about two billion dollars worth of corn, wheat, dairy products and other food staples, but is obliged under existing law not to sell this at less than 105 per cent of the support price, plus carrying charges.

New Law Asked

The new law asked by Mr. Truman would enable the CCC to sell its huge grain and other stores at the straight market price, if above the support level. Grain prices

A picnic calls for a balmy day and a sun that will blister your nose, a shady grove with some tables there, some horseshoes and picnic clothes. It calls for weather that's fair and warm, and pickles both sweet and sour; it certainly spoils it to find the day is scheduled for dark clouds and showers. For the beans get soggy, the cake gets damp, and oftentimes temper frays. It takes the sun for a picnic date—it's seventy-four today.

Report U.S. Now Better Steeled For War Or Peace

CLEVELAND, July 24.—(INS)—Steel magazine reported today that the United States is better "steeled" for war or peace than ever before.

The national metalworking periodical said that the nation's steel-making capacity—operating at an all-time high of 100,563,500 net tons—is now so great that operated at capacity for one year it would turn out 13.6 million tons more steel made last year in all the rest of the world.

Said Steel: "The Korean situation finds the United States producing at the rate of 11 million tons more in a year than the industry was required to produce in 1944, the biggest steel production year in World War II."

"In World War I the nation's steel capacity rose 14.5 million tons from 1914 to 1918; in World War II it rose 14 million tons from 1940 to 1945. Duplication of this pattern might mean the nation's steel-making capacity would rise to 115 million tons in a World War III."

The magazine reported that steel executives are expecting some form of allocations or priorities for the steel industry, and that under stimulus of the Korean situation consumer inquiry for steel is reaching new heights.

"Mills are booked to capacity in the major products for months ahead," Steel said. "Both with heavy military ordering in prospect, consumers will be lucky to obtain all of the tonnage they now have under contract let alone place additional orders for civilian goods production."

First life saving stations for distressed mariners in the U. S. were established in 1787 by the Massachusetts Humane Society.

young state of California from fifth place in population standings to second.

California Is Second

The Golden State's current population of 10,472,348 ranks it behind New York, whose 1950 citizenry of 14,743,210 still gives it claim to the title of most populous state.

The migration westward and the birthrate factor of the last ten years will also work a drastic change in the allotment of state representation in the house of representatives.

On a basis of one congressman for roughly every 344,000 citizens, 14 seats will be shifted around among 18 states. The reapportionment, to be effected by congress, will give California eight new congressmen, Oregon and Washington one each, at the expense of eastern states.

Pennsylvania, which may have to surrender two congressional seats, dropped to third place in population with a count of 10,463,965. Illinois is fourth with 8,696,490 and Ohio fifth with 7,901,791.

Texas Is Sixth

Texas, the largest state geographically, remains sixth in the number of citizens, with 7,677,060. Nevada had the smallest population, 158,378. Armstrong county, South Dakota, held onto its title as the most sparsely populated county in the nation, with only 52 inhabitants.

The preliminary census figures include some 700,000 transients, who were on the move when the enumerators rang the nation's doorbells.

Other highlights of the 1950 enumeration: Manhattan Island, New York, only 22 miles square, has a population of 1,938,551 and a density of 88,116 persons per square mile. It probably is the most thickly populated area of like size in the world.

Four-fifths of the 28 states bordering on the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coastlines and on the Great Lakes.

More than one-third of U. S. citizens is concentrated within the city limits of the country's five largest cities, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Detroit.

Says Marshall Was Warned Of Security Risks In Department

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—A Senate Appropriations subcommittee was disclosed today to have warned then Secretary of State Marshall in 1947 that the State department had "hundreds" of security risks.

The subcommittee pointed out that the situation existed "under the administration of Dean Acheson." Acheson then was undersecretary of state.

Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., made public a memorandum which he said was handed to Marshall in a closed-door meeting with a subcommittee headed by former Sen. Ball (R) Minn.

The Michigan Senator offered the memorandum in an effort to disprove claims of Sen. Tydings (D) Md., that employment named as security risks by Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis., were cleared long ago.

Hunt Person Responsible For Wreck Of Train

HOLLAND, Mo., July 24.—(INS)—Missouri state police hunted today for a "mentally unbalanced" person believed responsible for the wreck yesterday of a St. Louis-San Francisco railroad passenger train.

Engineer Ira H. Woods, 52, of Chaffee, Mo., was killed and Fireman Fred Thurman, also of Chaffee, was injured critically when the speeding train struck an open switch. Twelve passengers aboard the train suffered minor injuries.

The locomotive, tender and baggage car of the train were overturned and two coaches were derailed.

Missouri state highway police reported the switch had been turned by someone who sawed through a lock to release it.

The red warning light which ordinarily would have prevented the accident also was smashed.

E. H. Wilson, chief special agent for the train, termed the saboteur an "irresponsible person, mentally unbalanced."

The train was en route from Memphis, Tenn., to St. Louis at the time of the derailment. Passengers were removed to St. Louis by buses.

For the current fiscal year the president asked 13.5 billion dollars for the armed services. The house reduced this to 13 billions, and the senate is now acting on it.

These items are something new, even in wartime. Committee member Bricker (R) O., and others have served notice that they will be subjected to closest scrutiny.

Symington faces a similar grilling later when he moves to testify before the house banking committee.

The request for control over "facilities" is especially controversial. Some Republicans, including policy leader Taft, O., have interpreted it to mean that the president would have the power to tell every farmer what to plant and every small businessman how to use his factory.

Taft said that such sweeping powers are not needed at this time.

by the demolished airplane, but the intense heat prevented removal of bodies for several hours after the crash.

Captain P. S. Wood, public information officer at Shaw air base, Sumter, S. C., who was sent to the crash scene by the air force, said eye-witness descriptions indicated the plane spun into the ground.

One witness told authorities: "You couldn't tell it was a plane. Parts were blown hundreds of yards."

Tail Pieces Flies Off
R. K. Matthes of Conway, S. C., saw the fatal crash from the front yard of a tenant farm. He said he and tenant farmer Pearly Benson saw the plane pass overhead.

"While we looked at it, a piece of the tail suddenly flew off and the plane started spinning toward the ground. It made about three revolutions before it hit."

Matthes said the ship exploded when it struck the earth, shooting flames and aircraft parts into the air. The South Carolina farmer then sped to the scene in his auto.

He reported there was "almost nothing there where the plane went down—just chunks of melted and twisted junk."

Red tanks were reported operating along the Taejon-Kumchon road but results of any battles were not yet known at headquarters. Tanks moved on the First Cavalry's flank west of Yongdong, firing into American positions and forcing U. S. artillery to halve its effectiveness in this area by firing into two directions.

An artillery duel continued during the entire day with casualties on both sides.

Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, First Cavalry commander, sent back word from the front that he is ready to attack but there was no amplification of this information.

There was little word from the U. S. 25th Division on the fighting front.

American air power was being used effectively in support of ground troops.

Demands Flow Of American Cotton To Red China End

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—Rep. August H. Andresen (R) Minn., demands that the commerce and state departments shut off the flow of American cotton to Communist China and imports of dried eggs from that country.

Andresen charges that although this country has a dried egg surplus of 107 million pounds acquired under farm price supports, the import of dried eggs from China has been increasing.

He says it expanded from 61,200 pounds in the April-June quarter of 1949 to nearly 800,000 pounds in May, 1950.

THE BUILDUP

Any battle or any campaign, in its initial stages, is almost impossible to place in perspective on the basis of day-to-day fighting. From the crack of the first gun at the 38 parallel a month ago, American strategy has been: Hold a bridgehead and push the buildup. The buildup has now been well started.

The buildup for an all out offensive against the North Koreans doesn't start at the front. It may start in some obscure plant or at some military post where critically needed supplies of one kind or another, or personnel, are diverted from another purpose and sent on the way to the front. Meanwhile, all eyes are riveted on the fighting.

While the beleaguered 24th Division was buying space and time with lives, the buildup was under way. Ships from the west coast and from supply bases in the Pacific have been converging upon Japan and Korea at flank speed. An airlift of military and civilian planes has been flying in critical equipment and special personnel. The logistics machinery has been sending combat loaded ships to the single, constricted supply port of Pusan on the southeast coast.

Two additional divisions are now in Japan to forge a defensive perimeter of undetermined size while the buildup continues behind them. The situation is full of imponderables, such as possible Russian commitment of a sizable air force or ground troops to help out their northern mercenaries.

RED PROPAGANDA

Communist propaganda is never at a loss. Some persons have been wondering how it could brazenly put out the lie that South Korea was guilty of aggression against Communist North Korea. United Nations commissioners, on the ground 48 hours before the fighting broke out at the 38th parallel, have reported that South Koreans were massed strongly, and actually overlapped the frontier in several areas.

But none of this fazes the Communists. The New York Daily Worker, Moscow mouthpiece in the U. S., carried two page one stories in a recent edition. One contained a statement by Kim Hyo Suk, former cabinet member in the Syngman Rhee government. The other had a statement by Gen. Song Ho Sung, formerly of the South Korean army. The statements supported each other.

Both men went into circumstantial detail about their role in the "invasion" of North Korea by South Korean forces, at the instigation of American imperialism. Both expressed a deep sense of guilt and repentance at their sinful conduct, and both praised the North Korean "People's Democratic Republic."

It is necessary to read the Daily Worker stories very carefully to discover that these men are prisoners of war. They are in Communist hands. They have "confessed." Meanwhile the North Koreans announce they will hold an election in the areas they control to form a "government of all Korea"—with out waiting for victory.

This is another propaganda move. Despite the antagonisms that have always existed between North and South Koreans, most of them would be glad to hear that the division of the country has ended. They will soon be hearing it.

WHERE ARE THE ALLIES?

The United Nations Security Council a month ago called upon all peace-loving member nations to send, if possible, armed assistance to United States forces in Korea. A week ago the secretary general sent urgent dispatches to 52 countries. So far none but American ground troops are holding the line with the South Korean soldiers, though General MacArthur has been instructed to fly the UN flag.

Most of the British Asiatic fleet is on station in Korean waters as a carrier task force. The Australians are flying bombing missions with the U. S. Air Force. Both the British and French seem to think they have their hands full on the mainland—the former in Hong Kong and Malaya, the latter in Indo-China.

But for the sake of American troop morals in Korea and the strength of world faith in the United Nations, it is earnestly hoped that at least some token forces of other countries will show up soon on the battleground. A "qualified British spokesman" admits that "more than a token force is needed from up and other UN members in the long campaign that seems to lie ahead."

An international division of British, French, Dutch and Australian troops, reporting for duty to General MacArthur, would be a welcome arrival in Korea. Their countries have the greatest stake in a peaceful Asia. But to offset Red propaganda about imperialism, it would sound good to hear of the arrival of some Brazilian, Greek or Chilean troops.

The war seems to have run the Senate horse race probe out of the papers. And in big cities it used to get almost as much space as race results.

Only the newspaper headline writers are getting any satisfaction out of the Korean war. All the battles seem to be fought in places of one syllable.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

New Development Is Likely

Possibility that the United States may ask the nations of western Europe to make more substantial contributions to their own re-armament if they cannot help out in Korea is being discussed in diplomatic circles today.

European leaders are fearful that an awkward situation may arise if this comes to pass.

It is believed, therefore, that every possible effort will be made to make at least some showing in behalf of the United Nations commitment against North Korean communism.

Sweden Gives Aid

Observers consider it noteworthy that Sweden, determined to maintain strict neutrality even though she would have to depend on western Europe in event of conflict with the east, made an immediate contribution in keeping with her self-chosen humanitarian role in world conflicts.

The government announced that it is donating a full-scale hospital unit, with ambulances, doctors, nurses, surgical instruments and the like, and that all services connected with it will be free of charge.

Sweden has therefore "saved face." And while Gen. Douglas MacArthur obviously wants foot soldiers, no one can deny the tremendous value of the equipment that is being given while the western world regrets that such materials and specialists become necessary in the wake of war.

Before the Communist invasion of South Korea occurred, there was a feeling among European leaders that the re-armament of the west, the United States must assume the major responsibility so far as financing is concerned.

The American government was willing to shoulder the brunt of it but made it clear it wanted assurances that the European powers were doing all they possibly could. But the European tendency to use as much American money as they could get remained apparent.

Situation Must Change

Obviously, the situation in Korea must change all that.

President Truman's request to Congress for an additional 10 billion dollars staggered European capitals because of its scope. It drove home to them both the depth of American determination and the expenses that are anticipated.

The House of Commons is scheduled to debate the arms situation early next week.

There has been a great deal of criticism since Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell told the House that Britain's military condition does not allow for complacency.

The conservative press maintains that the budget allowed the military services since the end of the war has been more than sufficient to give Britain a feeling of security even though the land forces were stripped down to a minimum on the home islands.

The labor government's obvious answer will be that the anti-Communist campaign in Malaya, the strengthening of defenses at Hong Kong and continued activation of the fleet add up to huge expense.

This may not satisfy political critics in the House. But the United States high command, well-versed in logistics and the cost of military undertakings, may take a different view.

Case Of France

In the case of France, the government can cite the situation in Indo-China, where vast French forces are deployed against Communist rebels.

The truth of the matter is that all post-war American economies are precariously balanced.

It was with a knowledge of this that ECA administrator Paul Hoffman launched his plan for European "integration." He believes that Europe can solve many of its own fiscal troubles by getting together on matters such as foreign exchange, customs barriers and controls.

Little progress has been made in this regard and the same goes for the Schuman plan to link French and German heavy industries.

Congress approves the 10 billion dollar appropriation, western Europe may be shaken into a little greater activity. Certainly this plan makes it apparent in advance that the legislature is likely to be cool indeed to any new requests for funds from across the sea.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FEARFUL CHILD DEPENDS ON MOTHER

Many a child from one to five is beset with unusual fears of being hurt. He is afraid he might fall, afraid of riding a kiddie car, afraid of a wagon, afraid to scoot down a slide, afraid of a teeter totter, afraid to wade in water, afraid to climb or sit on a fence or a horse even when securely held there; afraid of almost any strange object or situation. He is truly pathetic.

Because of his fears he is shy of other children and is emotionally over-dependent on his mother. His fears retard his learning of many new experiences. Naturally, his fears spread and he may be burdened with all sorts of insecurities and anxieties.

Very Young

Usually his fears began, and were nurtured by his parents when he was very young. He was grabbed up and soothed by his mother every time he tumbled or got the slightest bump. How easy it is for a mother when a tiny toddler is slightly injured to betray to him her words and voice and movements her great fear that he might be badly hurt. So also she has great fear that he will suffer pain when he receives inoculations or shots or must have a bit of first aid or surgical care, or when he must have a tooth filled or extracted. Think of the fears the average mother betrays to her child when he is about to have his adenoids or tonsils removed.

The wise mother works hard on herself to reveal no fear in the youngster's presence, when the youngster receives the slightest or most severe physical injury. When, for example, he as a baby infant falls from the bed, or baby buggy she calmly picks him up, and cares for him almost with the calmness and skill of a nurse. When, as he rolls on the floor, he bumps his head against the furniture, she shows no concern. Unless there is a cut or serious bruise she acts as if she had not noticed what happened, in which event the infant may not even cry. While she vigilantly protects him from climbing dangerously, when he begins to creep and walk, she has him pick himself up if he can when he falls, and doesn't allow others to pick him up then or make a fuss over him. Even if he skins his hands or knees she evinces no apparent excitement. I have seen a little child so treated get up from a fall with blood seeping from hands or knees without crying but sometimes even smiling or laughing.

Walking Ahead

One time I saw a young father, whose two-year-old son was walking ahead of him through the door fell and bumped his nose, step over this lad and walk on. The child got up alone and didn't cry at all. My bulletin, "Fears," may be found in a stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N. Y. But this father is very kind to his son and companionable with him. Besides, he romps with the boy, tosses him about, pushes him up to touch the ceiling while holding him only by one or both ankles. Some other fathers thus harden their little children. There can be danger, of course. Great skill and discretion need to be exercised. The child who from early infancy is allowed to harden himself against fears of bodily pain is well prepared to escape many fears. He is the more ready to defend himself among other children and has good preparation for normal fun among playmates of his own age. Most adults who wear their feelings on their sleeves had these feelings embroidered there in babyhood.

Folks Of Fame

A beauty of the screen's silent days, May Allison was born in Georgia, and educated at the Birmingham and Centenary Female college at Cleveland, Tenn. She made her first stage appearance as "Beauty" in "Everywoman," and then had the title role in "Quaker Girl." She also appeared in "David Harum." She began her motion picture career in 1915. For four years she played in "Screen Classics"—in "For Thirty Days," "Peggy Does Her Darndest," "The Walk-offs," "Fair and Warmer," "Marriage of William Ashe," "Big Game," "Extravagance." The last picture of hers of which we have a record is "The Woman Who Fooled Herself." She was a blonde, with golden hair and blue eyes.

John Howard Payne was an American actor and playwright. He was born in New York City June 9, 1791. He established and edited a paper titled, "The Theatrical Mirror," when he was only 14 years old. His first play, "Julia," was published in 1806 and played in a New York theater. He made his debut as an actor in the tragedy "Douglas." He was next engaged by the Drury theater in London, and spent the next 20 years as actor and playwright in England and France. In 1818 he wrote a play called "Brutus," and in 1823, his opera, "Clari," or the "Maid of Milan" was performed in London. This is the opera in which his famous song, "Home, Sweet Home," was sung. In 1832 he returned to America and ten years later President John Tyler appointed him American consul at Tunis, Africa, where he died on April 9, 1852.

THIS INDIAN CAUGHT ON QUICK

There is one little story I love to tell to bankers, and I never had one laugh at it yet. It is about Joe Sore Dog, an Oklahoma Indian. Joe needed $200 in a hurry, and he went to the bank for it. Bankers said $200 was a lot of money, and how did the bank know Joe would pay it back? Joe said he was plenty honest.

"No understand security," Joe said. Bankers explained that security was something the bank could take if Joe didn't pay off his loan. What security had Joe?

"Got hundred pony on range," Joe said. "Fine, fat pony." The banker said that was enough and made the loan. Shortly thereafter, some wildcatters hit oil on Joe's land, and bought him out for $500,000. Clutching the money (cash) in his fist, Joe rushed to the bank to pay off his note and free his horses.

The banker's eyes widened when he saw the roll.

"You can't carry all that money around," he said.

"Why not?" Mr. Sore Dog answered. "My money. Gonna buy six Cadillac."

"No, no Joe," said the banker. "Somebody'll steal it, or you'll lose it. You just leave it here with us, and when you want money, you come here and we'll give it to you. All we want is to keep it for you."

Joe Sore Dog looked at the banker for a long time.

"How many ponies you got?" he asked.

OVERDUE BLOCK BUSTER

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

See Results From Ten Billions

WASHINGTON, July 24.—With ten billion dollars added to military spending for the fiscal year of 1951, which began on July 1, Pentagon planners believe they will accomplish two things: (1) They will be able to end the war in Korea successfully, and (2) They will make a satisfactory start toward rebuilding America's strength in being, at home and abroad, quiet apart from the Korean conflict.

Roughly, one half of the ten billions is to go for Korea and the other half for building up the three services from the low point of Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson's economy drive. Not all of the five billions for Korea will be shot up since at least a part of it will contribute to the long term build-up of American strength.

It is easy to exaggerate the argument that went on in the White House over the total amount to be recommended in the President's message. But, if the figure had been six billions instead of ten, then the margin for building up the services would have been slim indeed.

About Thirty Billion

When you add the ten billions to the 1951 defense figure of $14,500,000,000, and then put on top of that the figure for Marshall plan aid and military defense for the North Atlantic Treaty group, you come out with about $30,000,000,000. Assuming no more Koreans, the civilian planners in the Pentagon believe that a figure, approximating $25,000,000,000 a year, will be essential for the security of this nation.

The plea for the ten billion figure was particularly urgent from the Air Force. With the share allocated to the air arm it will be possible to add 10 new groups within a period of 15 to 18 months. This will be in addition to the rather shaky 48 groups in being at the present time.

Some idea of the cost of modern war can be gauged by the fact that the B-36's for one strategic bombing group cost about $100,000,000 all the extras and the intensive training of the crews.

Of Deep Concern

Of deep concern to top Air Force officials is the increasing emphasis in public opinion of the tactical air arm. This has been whopped up by early reports from the Korean War to the effect that Air Force planes were not geared to that kind of operation. From this, the conclusion has been drawn by some that the tactical branch was seriously deficient both in numbers and types of planes.

Officials responsible for directing the Air Force say this is not true. They point out that a tactical air arm is designed to operate in conjunction with ground forces. There is no reason to have a tactical air arm that is proportionately much greater than the size of the ground force with which it is to function. The tragedy in Korea was that at the outset there were no adequately trained troops on the ground.

WHEN DO WE EAT

There are a lot of compromises in this world (this is a new discovery).

Dad gets hungry at four p. m. Buster gets hungry. Tilly eats a cone at five p. m. Mom says that dinner will be ready at six and that settles it.

In the early days before the war Adam ate an apple because he was strategic. Air Force now in being. This force has the power to carry atomic bombs to the enemy. To fail to build it up would be to permit that shield to decline in effectiveness.

Part of the added money for the Air Force will go to speed up research and development. There has been a serious lag here. And with this realization is the growing awareness that in all probability the Russian capacity in this direction has been greatly underestimated. That has long been an American trait—to overestimate our own powers and to underestimate a potential enemy.

Finally the continental air defense of the United States is to be strengthened with part of the allocation to the Air Force. These are all steps of the first importance to the safety of every American citizen.

That is a fact which Congress can take in. The prayerful hope of those who are planning these steps toward greater security is that there will be time in which to take them.

Issue Is Quality Vs. Quantity

WASHINGTON, July 24. The weight of opinion among those who ought to know, including General Eisenhower, General Marshall, Mr. B. M. Baruch, Secretary of State Acheson, Mr. John Foster Dulles, Mr. David Samoff and a good many others, is overwhelmingly in favor of increased appropriations for the "Voice of America" so that it may more effectively counteract the anti-American propaganda with which the Soviets are drenching the world.

Concerning the importance of explaining the American viewpoint and disseminating the facts throughout the world, there is no dispute. Also, there is little dispute that in the past, though a great deal of money has been spent, this has not been well nor skillfully done. We have, it is said, simply not gotten our money's worth out of the "Voice of America." Up to now it has been a feeble and often vague voice, which is a pity but, nevertheless, a fact. Though not so intended, in effect, this is the testimony of the distinguished Americans who have appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee considering a resolution to enhance the flow of American information abroad.

And this is the basis for the "great new campaign of truth," which, with Mr. Truman's backing, is about to be launched. According to Assistant Secretary of State Edward W. Barrett, who now heads the "Voice," the purpose is to "slap down Soviet misstatements and put America's case before friends, neutrals and antagonists." Spokesman in the Senate for this campaign and author of the resolution is Senator William Benton, of Connecticut. Two things will be recalled about Mr. Benton. One is that he was a partner of Gov. Chester Bowles in the advertising business; the other, that as an Assistant Secretary of State he was the head of the "Voice" for several years prior to his appointment as senator. Under the pending resolution Senator Benton announces he would "expand the 'Voice of America' five-fold."

Certainly, with the approximately $100,000,000 additional which is being asked for the "Voice," it can be very greatly expanded. And the plans of Senator Benton and Mr. Barrett will vastly increase its size and scope. There seems no real opposition to this. On the contrary, the expansion idea is endorsed not only by the above-mentioned eminent individuals but is favorably regarded by most of the newspapers of the country. In brief, there is general recognition of the inadequacy of our propaganda machine and a very widespread sentiment favoring expansion.

However, there is another side to this. For example, there are those who insist that what the "Voice" really needs is improved quality rather than increased quantity. The effectiveness of our propaganda cannot be judged by its volume. The real yardstick is the character of the personnel. Unless it is manned by the right men, multiplying it five-fold will merely multiply its confusion and futility. Without particular criticism of Mr. Barrett, it is difficult to deny that American propaganda in the past has not been fortunate in the men who directed and produced it. Some of the most eminent among the current advocates of expansion privately do not hesitate to express this view.

Few will contend that during the war, the Office of War Information under Mr. Elmer Davis functioned satisfactorily. Undoubtedly, Mr. Davis did the best he could but there were incidents that made it appear he did not know clearly the difference between American propaganda and favorable publicity for the Roosevelt New Deal of which he was an ardent admirer. The same thing could be said of his most active aides. In those days the OWI personnel was certainly nothing to cheer about. After the war, when several thousands of its third-rate pay-roll boys were bodily transferred to the State Department, the level there was distinctly lowered. Later, under the advertising technique of Mr. Benton, the "Voice" seemed more vigorous but the results were no better.

Now, under Mr. Barrett there is no charge of partisanship or political flavor to the propaganda. The only allegation is that the output is fictional but dull—to the point of being a bore. Recently Mr. David Lawrence asserted that the "Voice of America" reads "like a press association report of 30 years ago—stodgy, wordy and without terseness or snap." No American newspaper or magazine would print anything like it, and it is difficult to believe that the "average man" in Russia or anywhere else abroad, even if the report reaches him, could be induced to read it. Couple its drabness with the fact that the Administration is not too clear about the policies it wants broadcast to the world, and its futility is easy to understand. None of this is intended to mean that more money should not be given the "Voice" to expand. It does mean that quality is more important than quantity and that with more money the obligation to improve the quality becomes imperative.

By ERICH BRANDEIS

If ever, by opening my mouth, I stick my foot in it, it is right now.

I shall be called an old fuddy-duddy, a reactionary, an old-fashioned grump, a mid-Victorian has-been.

But I don't care. I like my women feminine!

All this because of two reasons. First—a wrestling match between two women which I witnessed last night.

Second because of a newspaper item that the typical American woman of today is a career woman.

That wrestling match was one of the most disgusting spectacles I have ever seen.

Here were two young women, well-built, rather pretty, weighing only somewhere around 130 or 140 pounds, mauling each other, one kicking the other in the stomach, or gouging her eyes, resorting to every trick of mauling you can possibly imagine.

Several hundred spectators from all walks of life and ranging in age from the teens to incipient senility, cheered themselves hoarse and applauded wildly.

I expressed my utter disgust to the fellow next to me.

"What's wrong about that?" he asked, and added "Women want equal rights don't they? Well, if they can work like men and vote like men, why can't they fight like men?"

The newspaper item said that the ancient idea that woman's place is in the home is outmoded. The modern woman isn't a housewife, it claimed, she is her husband's business partner.

The twentieth century tendency is for both man and wife to go to work, to share their earnings, to leave the housekeeping and the bringing up of the children to hired help. That is what the article said, not I.

Perhaps it is all true. But if it is, I am glad that I was born and was a child in an age when the home was still a place in which to live, to grow up, to enjoy love and companionship, to be in the care of your mother and father—and not just a place the parents

Air Force Is Prepared For Reserve Call

By DARRELL GARWOOD
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The air force is prepared today to call up a limited number of its 365,000 reservists and possibly some members of the 45,000-man air National Guard.

The service is expected to announce its initial plans for calling up "peacetime airmen" to join army, navy and marine units already embarked on active duty.

Actual orders to individuals may not go out for about a week. Officials said there will be no identification of units called.

It is not certain whether the first air force call will include members of the air guard. Originally it was indicated that air guard units would not be called at present but spokesmen since then have implied that the question still is under study.

Reserves Are Called

Meanwhile, the Marine Corps called up additional reserve flying personnel to bring existing squadrons to full strength.

The Marines already had called up more than 50,000 reservists, including about 47,000 ground troops and more than 3,000 air and other reserve personnel.

The navy has called in about 4,000 reservists and the army, through enlistments, draftees, reservists and guardsmen, is expected to have raised its strength by an estimated 100,000 men by mid-September. About 25,000 of the 100,000 new men will be guardsmen.

About 53,000 of the air force's 365,000 reservists are members of the organized reserve.

About 64,000 of the 303,000 volunteer reservists—distinguished from the organized reserve—are members of training units not yet developed to the degree of the organized reserve outfits.

Top defense officials are expected this week to decide on a policy of limited deferment for reserve and National Guard personnel.

So far the army, navy and Marine Corps have been drawing heaviest upon reserve personnel with military specialties. The air force is expected to follow suit.

We live in the country, but only a little more than an hour away from New York City.

Whenever I go to New York I have to pass through one of the city's crowded tenement districts. Most of the parents go to work. The streets are teeming with unwatched children—yelling, destructive, mischievous, neglected and underprivileged children.

But where we live, the kids are well behaved. They are polite. They are watched, cared for, taught by their mothers. Not little sissies or prissies, mind you, but the kind you want for your own.

The mothers are too busy to go out to work. They are busy bringing up their young, making the home pleasant for the husbands who come home at night, giving them love, character, companionship—something nice to come home to. They are feminine women.

Do you mean to tell me that being a homemaker is not a career? Am I wrong to insist that the woman behind the man is every bit as responsible for America's greatness as the woman who is at the front with him? I have great respect for the career woman—but a woman doesn't have to be a wrestler to prove she is man's equal!

Westinghouse Plants Could Be Converted For War Production

PITTSBURGH, July 24.—(INS)—Gwilym A. Price, president of the Westinghouse Electric corporation, today said his giant electrical firm can convert its 68 plants to full military production overnight.

"If word came from Washington tonight," Price said in Pittsburgh, "our plants could begin conversion tomorrow to the production of more than 350 different military items, ranging from radar and related electronic equipment to secret and restricted devices developed since the last war."

He explained Westinghouse would set into motion a plan approved by the munitions board nearly two years ago.

The Westinghouse plan allocates manufacturing facilities in order that each plant may fill a primary need of either the Army, Navy or Air Forces and handle in addition the needs of at least six other defense bureaus or departments.

Price pointed out his firm already has devoted a sizeable portion of its billion dollar a year production to military projects. He said a major part of the work of the Westinghouse research laboratories is devoted to secret military research.

Price added that a special products development division was set up more than two years before and is used for the "conception, development and pilot plant production of advanced military equipment."

Apple Consumption Increase In Nation

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—Americans seem to be heeding the "apple-a-day keeps doctors away" axiom. They consumed 40 million bushels more of apples last fall and winter than during the same period in 1948-49.

Proof of all this apple eating is not in the pudding but in statistics released by the agriculture department.

These figures show that retail sales on the fruit climbed from 30 to 300 per cent in various parts of the country when compared with the previous season.

For example, restaurants, hotels, cafeterias and similar services reported increased apple sales ranging from 25 to 65 per cent. Some national chains of food stores boosted sales of apple pie, apple dumplings and candied apples by 50 per cent.

Cooking manufacturers used 10 to 25 per cent more while one New England baking company reported it used almost 400 bushels daily in making apple pies.

Their loss in consumption fortunately came in the face of a bumper apple crop—133,181,000 bushels in 1949 as compared with 88,407,000 bushels in 1948. The department said that for some varieties, the 1949 crop was 100 per cent greater than in the previous year.

CHERRY TIPS

NEW YORK.—(INS)—If you plan to preserve sweet cherries by freezing, choose firm-fleshed varieties. Soft-fleshed sweet cherries are likely to be soggy after freezing, but those with firm flesh make an attractive frozen product. One expert rates these as the best varieties for freezing: Schmidt, Lambert and Bing. The expert rates the Victor and Napoleon varieties as quiet satisfactory.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PALLOT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, July 24.—Judith Anderson, whose stage and screen homicide record would cause most hardened criminals to fidget, says she enjoys dealing in crime.

Miss Anderson insists: "Crime does pay. On the stage and in pictures, at least."

Miss Anderson is really an authority on the subject as most of her roles, and all of her favorite ones, have been thoroughly malevolent.

She won her fame on the stage as Lady MacBeth and on the screen as the sinister Mrs. Danvers in "Rebecca." More recently she played a savage mother who murders her own children to get even with an erring husband in the stage success, "Medea."

Scheming Widow
In her latest Hollywood film, "The Furies," she portrays a scheming widow who starts a bit-

American Embassy In Korea Functions In Spite Of War

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, July 24.—(INS)—The American embassy in Korea still functioning despite the war and is ready to issue a passport or visa although the thousands of Americans pouring into the country hardly need them.

U. S. Ambassador John J. Muccio and his staff which stuck with the South Korean government through its worst days has moved three times and now is at a central location where communications are best.

The big job of the American diplomat staff now is keeping up South Korean morale and keeping official Washington posted on all developments in the fast-moving war.

During the past week Muccio spoke to two large gatherings and Friday more than 5,000 Koreans cheered when he told them the tide of battle was about to turn in favor of American and South Korean soldiers and airmen fighting in close support.

The embassy is without clerical help now and all the men employees

GAS MISERY Takes Joy Out of Life

Recently a New Castle man said he used to feel like a swollen balloon after every meal. His food turned right into gas; he had gas pains almost constantly.

Now this man is praising CERTA-VIN. He said this new medicine moved inches of bloated from his stomach and now he can eat what he pleases, without gas misery.

CERTA-VIN is taken before meals and works with your food; thus you get the fullest good out of your meals. It contains: Ten Great Herbs with vitamin B and Iron, so it not only relieves gas; it also makes the nerves stronger with vitamin B and enriches the blood with iron. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get CERTA-VIN—all leading Drug Stores of New Castle.

Frightens Herself
Her career in crime does frighten her at times, however, she claims.

The actress says: "I've seen myself on the screen and it is alarming, really. I'd hate to have people referring to me as 'that mean Judith Anderson.'"

The talented star leads what amounts to a double life. On the stage or screen, she looks like the meanest woman of all time, whereas in real life she is one of the kindest persons you will ever meet.

While she is not working in Hollywood or on Broadway she spends her time at her newly-acquired ranch at Carpinteria, Cal., where her main interests are gardening and raising rare flowers.

The woman who slays her own children in "Medea" is nothing like the woman who walks around the Carpinteria ranch dressed in gardening clothes.

Frides Self On "Medea"
The actress took great pride in the stage hit "Medea." She said it was the most exacting and grueling role she has ever undertaken.

She said: "We tried to make it as authentic as possible. But I drew the line at the costumes they actually wore in the early Greek days. Women of that day traipsed about bare-bosomed. This is the only concession we made in staging the tragedy."

The actress said that "Medea" probably will never reach the screen because it is too stark. But she said that there were plenty of other meanie roles for her in the film city.

Green Pastures Will Be Judged

Good pasture is one of the main factors in successful and efficient livestock, and dairy programs on Pennsylvania farms. Improvement of pastures is lagging behind the improvement of production in other crops of less importance to livestock farmers. To show the value of improved pastures and to increase interest in pasture improvement, a Green Pastures Contest is being conducted by the production and marketing committee again this year as has been done in the past two years.

On Tuesday, July 25, the pastures highest placed in the community judging contest on July 11 will be judged on a county basis. The pastures to be judged are on the farms of Dorris L. Fulkman and Ralph Allison in Pulaski township and that of John Hayes in North Beaver township. Judges will be Howard Fox and Jacob Bumgardner, teachers of vocational agriculture in our county schools and Earl McElheny, one of the instructors in veteran's agriculture.

All farm families in the county interested in a good pasture program are invited to attend this judging tour on Tuesday. The starting point of the tour will be at the farm of Dorris L. Fulkman on the Pulaski-New Castle road at 9:30 a. m.

Jewish Veterans Event Thursday

New Castle Jewish War Veterans will present five television sets at Deshon hospital, Thursday, July 27.

The group will leave the Cosmo club at 6:45 p. m., on that date. At the same time, the local J. W. V. will distribute 20,000 cigarettes to patients.

MERCER, July 24.—Women and men who were orphaned by the Civil War will gather in Mercer,

August 8, 9, and 10 for the 62nd annual reunion of the old Mercer Soldiers' Orphans' Home.

Mercer was one of several homes maintained by the state to care for the children of Civil War heroes. Several years after it was abandoned former residents organized the Sixteeners' society and began holding reunions. In recent years families have joined with them in the annual get-together.

WOMAN BREAKS WRIST

Bessemer Conducts Religious School

Under the direction of Rev. Fr. William F. Frawley nearly 100 children of St. Anthony's parish in Bessemer completed four weeks of religious instructions.

Classes were held each day, Monday through Friday from 9:00 a. m. until 12 o'clock noon. Three Sisters of St. Joseph aided in teaching the children.

At the close of the summer school the children sang a high mass which was followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

CARLISLE, Pa., July 24.—(INS)—Carlisle Barracks, the nation's oldest military post, is slated to be headquarters for the Army War College.

The Carlisle post has been used by the army ever since the Revolutionary war. A guardhouse, built by captured Hessian troops, still stands.

Maj. Paul L. McPherran, public relations officer, said the college is scheduled to be transferred to Carlisle next summer.

The Army Chaplain's school, the Armed Forces Information School and the Army Security Agency will be transferred from Carlisle to other posts, according to McPherran.

At Ft. Leavenworth, the college is commanded by Maj. Gen. Joseph Swing.

Public Aid Department Reports $358 Thousand Decrease For June '50

HARRISBURG, July 24.—(INS)—The State Department of Public Assistance reported today that the $11,152,000 spent for relief during June was $358,000 under May expenditures and resulted from a drop of 15,000 in the average number of persons on the rolls.

The federal government contributed $3,912,000 to the old age assistance and aid to dependent children programs.

The state paid part of the cost of the two relief categories and carried the full burden of the general assistance and blind pension programs.

During June, the DPA reported, $3,458,000 went to people past 65 years of age on old age assistance rolls while aid to dependent children siphoned off another $4,497,000. Direct relief demands took $2,583,000 and blind pensions $614,000.

New Diesels Produced In First Half Of '50 More Powerful Than Ever

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—U. S. railroads are putting on more speed but there's less huffing and puffing than formerly.

The Association of American Railroads said today that the carriers added more new locomotives in the first half of 1950 than in any similar period since 1923.

On the 1,127 engines installed, only five were steam and the rest were diesels.

Let's look at the record. In 432 representative cities in the East North States there is a population of 15,266,563, an average population of a little better than 35,000.

In 1949 the average major crimes in these cities was 449. New Castle with a population of better than 50,000 had 114. The average in murders in the other cities was 4.6. New Castle had none. The average of manslaughter in the other cities was 2. In New Castle it was 2.6. The average robberies in other cities was 35.2. In New Castle it was 6.

For the other cities the average aggravated assault and battery was 46.6. In New Castle it was none. Burglary average in the other cities 112.3. In New Castle 44. Larceny in the other cities 199. New Castle 48. Auto thefts in other cities 38.4. In New Castle 13.4.

That's a doggone impressive record! It means that we have a law abiding community. It means that the chances of our homes being molested by hoodlums are extremely slim. It means that New Castle is "A Good Place to Call Home."

(The third of this series, "New Castle Speaks," will appear in next Monday's New Castle News. It will discuss the importance of industry in New Castle.)

(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
(Distributed By International News Service)Shades Of Alfalfa Bill

TULSA, Okla., July 24—(INS)—The lively ecstasies of Alfalfa Bill (William H.) Murray rides again through Oklahoma.

When Tuesday's (tomorrow's) run-off election in the Democratic primaries is over and the ballots in from the forks of the creeks, no sooner is going to drop dead of surprise when Alfalfa Bill's son, Johnston Murray, is elected the next governor of this state.

Naturally, the regular election will be held in November as usual, but the man who wins the Democratic nomination down here is as good as governor. Oklahoma has occasionally strayed from the true faith and elected a Republican to the United States Senate, but she never so far forgotten herself as to elect one of them varmints to the gubernatorial office.

Spry Old Party
Alfalfa Bill, the most colorful political character—and that means technicolor in this gaudy region—in contemporary Oklahoma history, is a spry old party now over eighty years of age.

But his sight and his hearing are almost gone, although his voice is still unimpaired and can be heard in the Texas Panhandle on a clear day.

However, he has taken no active part in the current campaign of his son beyond turning up at a few political rallies in a clean white shirt, his galluses and his every-day pants. The clean white shirt, comparable to white tie and tails on Alfalfa Bill, have been duly noted by all newspapers reporting true political trends throughout Oklahoma. But if Old Bill has honored the occasion with a pristine shirt, he still wears no man's necktie, including his own.

It is openly admitted even by Johnston Murray's most impassioned political adherents that he ain't a patch of his Pa and at best is a pale carbon copy of Alfalfa Bill. The sage of Tishomingo and the father of the state constitution.

Like Alfalfa Bill
Johnston, a gallus guy like Alfalfa Bill, is running on a "Just Plain Folks" plank and, so the cynics say, his Pa's shirt-tail. Like Hummon Talmage in Georgia, Johnston is bound to garner a lot of votes merely because he is his father's son.

Not only will this fortuitous circumstance get him the Democratic votes but a good many Republican ones, too. This happy chance derives from the fact that Alfalfa Bill, after Franklin Delano Roosevelt's first term, was a bitter political enemy of Mr. Roosevelt and all his works, including the New Deal.

Oklahoma Republicans are expected to remember this. So is the great influx of Eastern capital (during and since World War II) whose representatives find it wise, in this Democratic state, to register as Democrats but talk and vote as Republicans.

It is here, on the edge of the South and the fringe of the West, that one encounters two powerful voting groups whose influence is not yet apparent east of the Mississippi: The Old Age Pensioners and the United Dries. Johnston has both groups sewed up in a sack.

Can Deliver Bloc
The Old Agers can deliver from 30 to 35 thousand votes, a bloc not to be scorned in the state size of Oklahoma. And the Dries can deliver even more, as the city slickers in Tulsa and Oklahoma discovered last November when they were certain they had at last mustered enough votes to repeal the state prohibition law.

They were never more mistaken, and today—as always—this is the driest, voting, wettest drinking state in the union with the possible exception of Mississippi.

Although I was born and brought up in the far West and paused briefly in Oklahoma the border state, before being swallowed up by the effete East, I forget in between visits here that in the West no holds are barred in a good political scrap.

There is also a feller named Jo Ferguson, editor of a country newspaper at Pawnee, who has won the Republican gubernatorial nomination. I'd mentioned Jo before, but it took three days before anyone could remember the name of the Republican candidate.

Until September at least, roses should be cultivated regularly to destroy weeds and aerate the soil. The soil never should be allowed to bake and form a hard crust.

Cuttings of scented geraniums rooted now and potted will make sizable plants by winter. Cuttings taken from inside plants root easier than those from plants growing in the open.

Rhubarb hills should be divided and reset every seven or eight years. Otherwise the plants become so thick and produce only slender stems.

Since rotenone is poisonous to fish and other cold-blooded animals, do not use it to kill insects on water lily pads.

Muskmelons do not get sweeter after picking. For full flavor leave them on the vine until a crack appears all around the point of attachment between the stem and melon.

Late afternoons and early evenings are the best time to water the garden—except roses. These should never be watered later than noon, since evening sprays on muggy nights induce mildew.

Legion Charts New Course

Universal Military Training Is Sought

By EUGENE J. CADOU
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

INDIANAPOLIS, July 24.—The American Legion charted a new course today by which it abandoned the fight for additional veterans benefits to promote adoption of universal military training in the U. S.

The Legion called upon congress to adopt UMT legislation in a report issued by the organization's national security commission and presented before a special meeting yesterday of all state Legion commanders called by National Commander George N. Craig.

Craig said the new emphasis in the Legion program is prompted by the war in Korea. He disclosed during a radio address that his organization would cease efforts for new pensions, a bonus bill and extensions of the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Paying The Price
In his plea for UMT, Craig said American youths dying in Korea are "paying the fearful price of inadequate training and of insufficient weapons and supplies."

He added:
"Universal military training is security insurance for your nation and survival insurance for your young men. In war the trained live—the untrained die."

The Legion plan would require registration of all males at the age of 17 with actual training to start when the registrant reaches the age of 18 or when he graduates from high school but in either event before reaching the age of 20.

Proposed training would last four months and the youth then would be given the option of joining any branch of the armed services for another eight months.

The Legion proposes also that the plan be administered by a three man civilian commission. Trainees would be paid salary at allotments similar to those of the regular services.

In another action, the Legion high command proposed prison sentences for any person found guilty of aiding an enemy of the U. S.

WIFE BEATEN TO DEATH
NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS)—A civilian employee of the Navy will appear in court today to face charges of beating his estranged wife to death yesterday while his five-year-old son slept peacefully in the next room.

William Large, 32, a native of Bellefontaine, O., allegedly admitted to police that he had a bitter quarrel with his wife, Madeline, 27, who died 18 hours after his return from overseas.

Second Week Ends At Y Camp Rentz

Final campfire ceremonies for the second week campers at YMCA Camp Fred L. Rentz were held Saturday night.

Sixty nine awards were given to the boys as symbols of completing camping activity. First year awards went to 20 boys, second year to 30, third year to 10, and fourth year to nine. Sam Pearson was the champion, however, as he received an award for five years.

Third week of the camping season opened Sunday with vesper services and a large gathering of parents and friends. Rev. Owen Shields, pastor of the Croton Methodist church, brought a most appropriate message.

The third week is again a capacity camp with a total of 84 persons in camp.

Final Arrangements For Legion Convention Have Been Completed

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—(INS)—Final arrangements were completed today for the 32nd annual convention of the State Department of the American Legion, scheduled to be held in Philadelphia August 9-12.

Samuel J. C. Greene, president of the Legion's convention corporation, said arrangements have been made to house some 7,000 delegates and an additional 70,000 expected visitors.

The convention will open with a memorial service at Convention Hall. A six-hour long parade will be one of the highlights of the four-day get-together.

Greene pointed out that the state legion includes more than 300,000 members, sixty per cent of whom are veterans of World War Two. Delegates representing 100,000 members of the auxiliary also will convene.

Charges Defense Planning In U.S. Is Real Disgrace

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—A congressional critic charged today that the federal government has failed to give local authorities proper guidance on how to cope with "atomic explosions or any other form of enemy attack."

Rep. Latham (R) N. Y., termed national civilian defense planning "a disgrace."

Latham asserted:
"The history of civil defense planning in Washington is one of the typical bureaucratic bungling, starts and stops and all-around lack of intelligent action."

Latham emphasized that President Truman's message to Congress on the Korean situation failed to contain a line on plans to co-ordinate local and national action in the event of bombing attacks.

The legislator said:
"The lack of a comprehensive nationwide plan of civil defense in case of emergency is a disgrace." Two other House members have complained about a lack of civilian defense planning on the part of Washington officials. They were Reps. Kennedy (D) Mass., and Canfield (R) N. J.

Latham condemned the National Security Resources Board for a lack of action since it took over the civilian defense planning job early this year.

Milk Bottles To Have 'New Look' Caps After First Of September

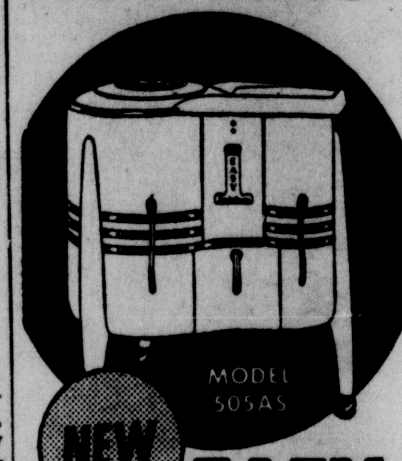

HARRISBURG, July 24.—(INS)—Milk bottles will have new look caps in Pennsylvania after September 1.

A state advisory health board ruling provides that milk bottle caps must cover the entire pouring lip including the outer diameter.

In other words, any part of a bottle over which milk will flow when it is poured must be protected by a suitable covering until it reaches the consumer.

The Pennsylvania Association of Milk Dealers reports that many dealers in the commonwealth already are providing caps fitting over the outside of the bottle top.

Acheson Will Give Senators Secret Report

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—Secretary of State Acheson gives the Senate foreign relations committee today a secret report on the Korean war and his estimate of the danger of armed outbreaks in other tense areas.

The closed meeting, starting in mid-afternoon, is the first between Acheson and the committee since the Reds poured into South Korea. Chairman Connally (D) Tex., said the discussion is apt to be as "wide as the world". Connally indicated particular interest in Acheson's assessment of a possible clash in Iran.

Committeemen will ask Acheson if he thinks the Korean war is a diversionary move on the part of Russia, to be followed by "little wars" in widely scattered areas and then a major strike by the Soviet Union.

Sen. Wiley (R) Wis., said he wants to find out what American intelligence knows of Communist troops concentrations in trouble zones.

Wiley noted that the admission of Red China to the United Nations is on the agenda of the UN assembly's fall meeting. Wiley said he will ask what Acheson proposes to do about it.

Reminded that Acheson has stated this country will not use the veto to keep Red China out, Wiley replied:

"That was before the Communists crossed the 38th parallel. The situation is different now and the secretary may change his position."

The only war-connected legislation ahead on the committee is the increase in the arms-for-friends program which Mr. Truman said is needed.

The president gave no figures in his message to Congress. Key legislators say the increase may be about five billion dollars. Connally doubted Acheson will have cost details to present today.

Congress has authorized $1,222,500,000 for the second year of the military aid program. But this sum was requested before the Korean war. Mr. Truman told Congress Wednesday that it may be necessary to arm countries not included up to now in the weapons-sharing plan.

National Farm Safety Week In Progress In Nation

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—Today is the beginning of National Farm Safety Week and agriculture officials are anxious to use it as a wedge for improving the national record—not a good one by any means.

Statistics show that the most common kind of accidents involve falls of one sort or another, perhaps down improperly lighted cellar stairs, on an icy walk or out of a hay mow.

Farm machinery, motor vehicles and animals are also frequent causes of injuries or deaths in farm families.

Agriculture Department experts think the best way to reduce accident tolls is to conduct a thorough clean-up campaign and thus remove as many hazards as possible.

Trash, loose wire, broken glass and other debris are potential lurking places for accidents.

Knowing that some accidents are sure to happen no matter how successful the current campaign, safety experts recommend the strategic placement of first aid kits about the farm.

WORKMAN KILLED

PALMYRA, Pa., July 24.—(INS)—A 63-year-old Hershey Estates workman was killed today by a Reading railroad passenger train about a half-mile west of the Palmyra Station.

The man was identified by state police as Frank Demichele, of Palmyra, R. D. 1. Police said Demichele was walking along the tracks toward the station when the accident occurred.

Security Council To Hear Report Of MacArthur Tuesday

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 24.—(INS)—The United States asked the United Nations today to call a meeting of the security council tomorrow afternoon to hear the first full report on the Korean military situation from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Warren R. Austin, chief of the U. S. delegation, notified security council chairman Arne Sunde of Norway that the MacArthur report is ready.

Sunde slated the session for 3 p.m. (EDT) tomorrow. He will emphasize in his call that exactly a month ago on June 25 it adopted the historic sanctions resolution under which President Truman hurled American forces into the battle against the invader.

Crops Booming At Court House

Corn And Tomatoes Doing Well, Thank You

They'll be harvesting something else besides justice at the court house this fall.

Crops are doing well thank you kindly.

Some of the squirrels with an eye to the future, planted several stands of corn in the evergreens around the Court House Annex and the corn is just beginning to show signs of coming into tassel. In the rose bed standing up proudly among the riot of red roses are six tomato plants, healthy and hearty and giving promise of a good crop. How they got into the rose bed is a mystery but there they are.

With a good crop promised the county commissioners might consider a canning plant for the packing of Lawrence Corn and Tomatoes.

INJURED IN FALL

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

JUNIOR AND THE TELEPHONE

The telephone operator in our apartment house stopped me as I came in the door. "Would you mind telling the people in the apartment next to you that their phone is off the hook again. I expect their three-year-old youngster has been playing with it."

The telephone is a fascinating plaything for most children. They've heard father's voice on the other end, they notice how mother likes to talk to her friends, and they've learned that you can even get groceries by calling up the store. Dial telephones are especially intriguing because it's lots of fun to twist the dial and hear the ringing sound as it goes back into position.

For the smallest child a toy phone is a good substitute, then he doesn't cause trouble by indiscriminate use of the real one. In spite of the temptation children have to learn not to use the phone unless they are under supervision, just as they learn not to play with the stove, but with supervision, even children of five and six can learn to use a telephone correctly. On occasions they may be allowed to call up father or some playmate equally skilled in talking and listening over the wire. There's no reason why these skills should be postponed until later years. (Copyright, 1950, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

MARINE SHOOT

QUANTICO, Va.—(INS)— Marine Commissioned Warrant Officer Mark W. Billing of Detroit, recently set a new national record in the 45 caliber National Match Course during the Annual Spring Pistol Tourney held at Harrisburg, Pa. Billing scored a 295 out of a possible 300 without scoring any of the nine ring to take the record established by Major Harry Reeves, USMCR, a Detroit policeman. Reeves allowed two hits in the eight ring in his firing for the record, and thus was out-ranked by Billing for the national record.

Food 'Giveaway' Amounts To 185 Million Pounds

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—The government's surplus food "giveaway" program amounted to 185 million pounds through June 30, 1950.

The agriculture department reports that donations of Commodity Credit Corporation surplus foods to eligible recipients in the U. S. totaled about 180 million pounds to private welfare organizations for foreign relief purposes about 25 million pounds.

This program was set up under the agricultural act of 1949 to prevent waste through deterioration or spoilage of commodities acquired by CCC price-support operations.

Made available free at point of storage by the CCC, the surplus stocks are distributed this way by priority:

School-lunch programs, Indian affairs bureau, federal, state and local public welfare organizations for assistance of needy Indians and other needy persons, private groups for assistance of the needy both within and outside the U. S.

Transportation costs may be paid by the corporation on 1949-crop potatoes under certain conditions.

So far the CCC has been able to fill all requests from eligible agencies. Domestic distribution included 4,860,625 pounds of non-fat dried milk solids, 2,118,023 pounds of dried eggs, 139,294,329 pounds of potatoes, 8,122,098 pounds of butter and 4,914,843 pounds of cheese.

Foreign relief distribution included non-fat dried milk solids, dried eggs, butter and cheese. No potato shipments were made. Butter and cheese in limited quantities were made available for foreign relief for the first time in early June.

SLUM BREEDERS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.—(INS)—Run-down, neglected, over-age homes can be the beginnings of the "slums of tomorrow" and lead to social decline, a leading sociologist warned recently. Bad housing is a breeding place of juvenile delinquency, illness and accidents, said sociologist Dr. Joseph S. Roucek, commenting on a recent study of the national housing picture. The survey was conducted by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company. It indicated that more than 23 million Americans live in homes 30 or more years old and some nine million in homes 50 years and older, explained Dr. Roucek, who is chairman of the department of sociology and political science at the University of Bridgeport.

Swirling currents that once threatened to undermine the Cape Hatteras, N. C., lighthouse have been thwarted with brush and grass.

If meat sticks when you are cooking it in fat in a skillet, the chances are the fat was not hot enough before you add the meat or that there is not sufficient fat in the pan.

Sen. Tydings' Report Will Be Combatted

By GLENN M. GREEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Senate Republicans seek to disprove today administration claims that employees labelled by Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis., as security risks were cleared long ago.

The office of Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., said the Senator will present "facts" to show that Sen. Tydings (D) Md., was wrong in his assertions.

So far, Tydings' broadside of ridicule against McCarthy's tactics and charges have brought these reactions from Republicans:

1. Sens. Jenner Ind., Hickenlooper Iowa, Kem Mo., and GOP Senate leader Wherry Neb., have taken the floor to charge that the Democrats "whitewashed" the State Department and investigated McCarthy instead of the department.

2. Sen. Lodge Mass., a member of the special subcommittee along with Hickenlooper, declared that the probe was not complete and that the charges deserve further study by an impartial, trained commission.

But Lodge said he had not found "a single Communist" in the State Department.

Legislation in "Mill"

3. Three pieces of Republican-sponsored legislation to clarify the loyalty are in the mill. Lodge has offered a resolution for his impartial investigation and Wherry has offered a similar one. Sen. Thyne Minn., has submitted a bill calling for a survey of the loyalty program with emphasis on procedures, not specific loyalty cases.

4. GOP members are pushing harder for enactment this session of the Mundt-Ferguson bill for the registration of Communist and Communist-front organizations.

Although the Democratic majority of the Tydings subcommittee suggested some overhaul of the program with a possible check of the system by an impartial board, little hope is held out for passage of any such legislation this session.

Democratic Senators obviously feel they have laid to rest the Communist issue by the arguments and wording of the Tydings subcommittee report and are willing to hold that line for the fall elections.

Twenty-Third Night Is The Charm For Jamaica Policeman

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS)—The policeman's lot was a very boring one for the first 22 nights probationary patrolman Theodore Christensen walked his Jamaica, New York, beat. Nothing at all happened.

But, on his 23rd night, just as Christensen had begun to despair of ever making an arrest, he pulled in three men—and for a crime few veteran policemen had ever heard of.

The three were dismantling, piece by piece, a wooden bridge right in the middle of Christensen's beat.

Warns Danger Now Confronting Nation Of Large Dimension

By CHARLES B. SEIB
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Industrial Mobilization Chief W. Stuart Symington told Congress today that the danger confronting the nation in the Korean conflict and its implications is "greater" than it was in World War II.

Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, warned that America is confronted by a grave manpower shortage in the military and economic fight against communist aggression. He said military demands will be made on factory and farm workers.

He told the Senate banking committee that there is urgent need for congressional haste in giving President Truman the powers he requires to mobilize the nation's industrial might.

Symington added, however, that he would urge that industrial expansion be accomplished under private enterprise rather than by rigid government control.

Technically, there is no such thing as "smokeless" coal.

Several Properties Are Exempted From Taxes By Council

Council convened Monday in city hall and exempted from taxation several Newell avenue properties taken over some time ago by the public school district for future playground facilities.

Council agreed to view Neal street, where a grade must be established as the result of plans to grade for sidewalks. It was said that several properties are on the street line.

Lawrence County Farm Bureau Co-operative association was instructed to have a plumber take out a city permit in view of the company's desire to connect their proposed property with the city sanitary sewer system.

City clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for the grading and building of sanitary sewers in Randall street, Vogel avenue, National street and Wooley avenue.

Hunt Laborer Who Has $25,000 In Banks

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—(INS)—

Two Philadelphia banks were looking for a thrifty Italian immigrant laborer who has $25,000 coming to him.

The man went under the names of P. F. Paolo Di Claudio and Paul Di Claudio before he disappeared in the late 1920's.

The Philadelphia Saving Fund society said he has been heard from since 1928, although his bank account now amounts to more than $13,500. The Western Saving Fund society last heard from him in 1929—and has more than $11,400 waiting for him.

Unless he or his heirs claim the money within a short time, the banks pointed out, it will be taken over by the state.

Neither the residents of the neighborhood where Di Claudio lived, nor the Italian consul has been able to give any clues to his whereabouts or shed any light on his disappearance.

West Side Grounds Has Wiener Roast

A wiener roast highlighted the special events of the past week at the West Side playground.

Children and their parents gathered for the event on Thursday evening. Two huge fires were built for the occasion.

Later, running and relay races were held, followed by a scavenger hunt. Those returning first with their items were Russell Brown and Doc Gonzalez.

Plans are now being made for tournaments in tether ball, jack, badminton, and checkers to be held in the playground during the summer. The winners will represent West Side in the city tournaments.

The special event for this week will be bum's day on Wednesday at 2 o'clock.

Meat Institute Says Prices To Decline

CHICAGO, July 24.—(INS)—A survey by the American Meat Institute shows that war-scare buying—which has caused soaring meat prices since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea—is on the decline.

The institute announced that fresh pork loin prices have dropped 16 to 18 cents a pound and the cost of other fresh and cured meats has been steady on the wholesale market in the last two weeks.

Meat packers meanwhile have taken steps to prevent profiteering in canned meats even though there is no present or foreseeable future shortage.

The institute pointed out that the biggest peacetime pork crop in history is expected to arrive at markets earlier than usual this fall.

It also cited a government report that 34 per cent more cattle now are on feed than a year ago.

Horses were first introduced in the Southwest in 1540 by the Spanish explorer, Coronado. Cattle and sheep were brought by Spanish colonists in 1598.

Jean L. Bradley in the Bell Telephone Business Office at Pottsville, Pa.

Opportunity

Jean Bradley began her Bell Telephone career 10 years ago. She started as a telephone operator; became a Business Office service representative; and recently was appointed supervisor of the Pottsville Business Office.

A successful career? Certainly . . . but not an unusual one in the telephone business, where opportunity for advancement goes hand in hand with the security of steady employment.

These advantages . . . opportunity and security, combined with good wages . . . help us attract the kind of men and women needed to provide the people of Pennsylvania with the telephone service they have a right to expect.
